
The Observatory of Religions and Secularism (ORELA), hosted by the Université libre de Bruxelles, is proud to launch its first report on religion and secularism in the European Union.

In this new and unprecedented report, ORELA examines major concerns for the EU, such as secularization, the way EU institutions and European countries cope with diversity and pluralism, State and religion cooperation, religion at school, ethical issues and societal debates, freedom of religion, religion-based campaigns...

Since 2013, ORELA has published annual reports on religion and secularism in Belgium. It offers online analyses concerning religions and beliefs and Church-State relations, written by experts from the CIERL and various European universities or research institutes, as well as a daily press review on religion and beliefs, covering Europe and beyond.

Thanks to a network of experts in the 28 EU member States, ORELA also provides a summary of every national situation, and now a comprehensive and transnational report on religion in the EU.

See the table of contents below.

The report will be released on Tuesday 23 October at 3PM (Brussels time) on: http://www.o-re-la.org

For contacts concerning ORELA:
Jean-Philippe.Schreiber@ulb.ac.be +32477275543
Cecile.Vanderpelen@ulb.ac.be

For the press, about the 2018 report:
Caroline.Sagesser@ulb.ac.be +32485338838
jan_nelis@hotmail.com
Table of contents

I. Religious diversity and secularisation in the Old World
- 1. The secularization of the West and of the East ........................................... 6
- 1.2. The Catholic Church under the leadership of the first non-European pope .......... 7
- 1.3. The increasing diversity of Christian denominations .................................... 34
- 1.4. Importance and diversity of Muslim groups .................................................. 28
- 1.5. The liberal contributions of Europe ............................................................... 36
- 1.6. The “new waves” among philosophies and religions/other groups ................... 37
- 1.7. Secular atheist groups ..................................................................................... 38

II. Coping with diversity: impact on public policies, legislation and debates ........ 40
- 2.1. Religion in the public space ............................................................................ 60
- 2.2. Non-discrimination, religious accommodations, majority .............................. 55
- 2.3. Impact on state church relationships/other .................................................... 56
- 2.4. Attitudes towards so-called sectarian organisations ....................................... 66

III. Religion and school ....................................................................................... 87
- 3.1. Public and confessional schools across the continent: old issues, new vision? .... 88

IV. (Reproductive) religious conservatism and ethical questions across Europe .......... 77
- 4.1. Women’s rights — gender equality .................................................................. 77
- 4.2. LGBT rights .................................................................................................... 81
- 4.3. Euthanasia ...................................................................................................... 88

V. Convivial organizations and the EU ............................................................... 89
- 5.1. Official dialogue in contact with the EU ........................................................... 90
- 5.2. Intermixing among religions, and non-religious interest groups ...................... 94
- 5.3. Religious based campaigns on the Internet ....................................................... 99
- 5.4. Religious at the European Parliament .............................................................. 100

VI. The role of the European Court of Human Rights and the Court of Justice of the European Union ................................................................. 103
- Freedom of religion ............................................................................................... 103
- Equality and non-discrimination based on religion or belief ................................ 109

VII. Conclusion .................................................................................................. 115
- Religion in the European Union ............................................................................ 116
- European pluralism ............................................................................................... 119
- State and religion cooperation ............................................................................. 119
- Identity and societal division ............................................................................... 129
- Managing religious pluralism .............................................................................. 122